

Collaborate Seamlessly Anywhere

The team you have today looks a lot different than it did ten years ago: it's mobile, global and increasingly millennial. Team collaboration tools have changed a lot too. They leverage the power of unified communications, work seamlessly across different devices (smartphones, tablets, desktops) and support real-time interaction in less time than ever before. With the right team collaboration solutions, you can achieve amazing levels of teamwork, right from the palm of your hands.

Challenges You Might Be Facing

- The mobile mindset.

Work is no longer a destination; it's something you do wherever you are. More and more employees value mobility and flexibility, and they need a collaboration platform that works the way they do.

- Frustration with siloed applications.

Businesses are tired of piecemeal solutions that foster confusion instead of collaboration. They want a single solution for communications and collaboration that works the same for everyone, on any device.

- The growing expectation of real-time communications.

Just as customers expect a high level of responsiveness, colleagues also look for instant responses. Colleagues and customers expect an answer in the next few minutes, not the next day. When projects, teams or those supporting customers require answer, business communications need to support real-time collaboration, presence, instant messaging and more.

4 Questions You Should Ask

Will I have to use different solutions for unified communications and team collaboration?

How does your collaboration tool work as I move between devices?

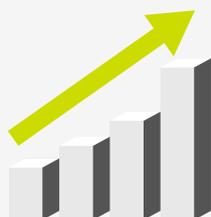

What collaboration features do you support?

What if I want to move my collaboration apps into the cloud? Or keep them on-site?
